The International Sustainability Council (ISC) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing the understanding of the relationships between ecological, social and economic systems for the mutual benefit of people and the environment. This is achieved by forging partnerships with governmental agencies, municipalities, communities, universities, businesses and not-for-profit organizations.

Join us today, and work towards helping us to achieve this goal by becoming an ISC Charter Member.

Charter Membership Program

Step One: Join! The ISC Charter Member Program begins simply by joining. For $250 your business, municipality, non-profit, or university earns the right to use the ISC logo. In addition, your membership includes Audubon Lifestyles Platinum Membership, and a listing on the Audubon Network. Audubon Lifestyles is an ISC Partner Organization assisting us to achieve our mission. Learn more about Audubon Lifestyles at: www.audubonlifestyles.org

Step Two: Create a Sustainability Charter. A Sustainability Charter is an affirmation of the International Sustainability Council's Principles of Sustainability, and serves as a public declaration of your intent to hold yourself to a higher than minimum standard. ISC Charter Members can call upon Audubon Lifestyles for assistance in developing a Sustainability Charter.

Step Three: Publicly display the final ISC approved version of your Sustainability Charter on your website and/or physically at your location.

Step Four: You are now an ISC Charter Member, and are allowed to display the ISC Charter Member Logo on marketing materials, website etc., and have earned a listing on the ISC website as a Charter Member of the ISC for as long as you maintain your annual $100 membership in the ISC/AL.
